

Multimedia Producer, Forbes Asia

Forbes Asia is seeking a Multimedia Producer to join its team in Hong Kong to assist with the creation of multimedia content and graphics for publication in our magazine, website and social media. The successful candidate should possess strong English skills and have experience using multimedia tools such as Adobe Premiere, Adobe After Effects and Adobe Photoshop. Knowledge or experience in business journalism is desirable, but not essential.

Key Responsibilities

- Work with editors to manage ongoing projects and daily publication of news content.
- Assist in the production of multimedia elements such as lists, online visuals, infographics, motion graphics and short-form videos.
- Assist with the promotion of articles and other content across social media.
- Script videos and pitch new ideas for multimedia content.

Requirements

- Minimum of two years of professional experience in multimedia production.
- Experience using social media platforms (such as Facebook, Twitter and Instagram) for content promotion.
- Knowledge and experience in fast-paced publication/multimedia business.
- High level of written and spoken English. Other languages are a bonus but not essential.
- Some familiarity with the Asia business scene.

Applicants should send a cover email with CV to: rolsen@forbes.com